More than one year in the making and this four diamond hotel property is close to opening its doors to the public. This unique, design-build project was a collaboration between Butler, Rosenbury & Partners (BR&P), John Q. Hammons Hotels, Killian Western, and the City of Glendale.

This four-part project includes the Renaissance Hotel & Spa, Conference Center, Media Center, and Parking Garage. John Q. Hammons Industries was the hotel developer, while the City of Glendale owns the Conference Center, Media Center and Parking Garage. Unlike any other property in the City of Glendale, this project will be able to support the needs of any large-scale, high-profile event.

Glendale Channel 11 operates from the Media Center, and will serve as a media venue for such events as the Fiesta Bowl and the 2008 Super Bowl. In fact, the entire property will be used for supporting events during the Fiesta Bowl and the Super Bowl.
